LOCATION

Claverley is a picturesque village surrounded by rolling Shropshire countryside, ideally situated between the Wolverhampton and the historic market town of Bridgnorth, just off the A454. The village enjoys a thriving community atmosphere and offers an excellent range of local amenities, including a primary school and nursery, doctors surgery, Church, traditional pubs, cafe, village hall, and an array of sports clubs.

The surrounding countryside provides direct access to an extensive network of scenic walks and bridleways, making the area particularly appealing to outdoor enthusiasts. Despite its rural setting, Claverley benefits from excellent transport links, offering convenient access to the West Midlands and beyond, making it well suited for both commuting and country living.

OVERVIEW

With around 3,500sq.ft of living space, this quietly positioned farmhouse dating to the 17th Century, has preserved features that provide a fascinating timeline of its history and owners. The core of the house is timber framed on sandstone with stone architecture. Internally there are many exposed original timbers, some engraved by previous occupants. Retained in the lounge area, is a spectacular display of early hand painted plaster scenes with intricate painting on the ceiling timbers. Through the centuries, the farm formed part of the Apley Estate, followed by the Ridley family, renowned as the oldest trading seedsman in the country during the 19th Century, then later to an industrialist who reputedly designed supplied the ironmongery door handles for the House of Parliament - the front door handle remains here as one of the prototypes.

The house has a charming flow with spacious rooms and ready for further updating.

ACCOMMODATION

The property opens through a covered porch into a welcoming reception hall with traditional quarry tile flooring. Stairs rise to the first floor, with access also provided to the cellars. From the hall, doors lead to the principal reception rooms, including the dining room with a large inglenook fireplace, sitting room, lounge and drawing room. Each featuring wood-burning stoves.

The kitchen, also laid with quarry tiles, is fitted with base cupboards, worktops, a sink unit, and an electric AGA. To the rear, a quarry-tiled hall provides access to a guest cloakroom/WC and a utility/pantry with appliance space.

On the first floor, a generous landing enjoys open views to the front. The principal bedroom suite features original floorboards, a cast-iron fireplace, and an adjoining en-suite bathroom. Connected to the bedroom is a substantial room, formerly the grain store and still retains its external granary steps. The space is currently used as an office. This floor also includes two further double bedrooms and the main family bathroom.

The second floor offers two additional double bedrooms both of which are serviced by a shower room with WC.
